Opium will be dealt with as heretofore, promissory notes payable on the arrival at H.M.'s Minister, and not otherwise, being accepted by the local authorities in satisfaction of the duty stated under for Likin.

Intending visitors to the City will now on the present do well to give notice to H.M.'s Consulate at Swatow, a day or two previous to their departure, and the undersigned cannot too strongly recommend the necessity of procuring passports for the five Provinces, as they do not seem to be any active difficulty encountering among the people, but the children of the children may be annoying, and a very little matter might at any moment stir up a turmoil among people so turbulent, and easily excited, as those of Chaou-chau Fu.

HONGKONG, JANUARY 11TH, 1869.

A STORY is told by a Russian writer, that, when on the death of NICHOLAS, the Emperor ALEXANDER II. liberated all the prisoners in the citadel, the Superintendent of the Gaols found, in a vaulted tomb, in which it was impossible to stand upright, and which was not more than two yards long, an old man, almost bent double, and incapable of answering when he was spoken to. He had been in the dungeon more than fifty years. When he was taken out, he could not bear the light, and by a strange phenomenon, his movements had become automatic. He could hardly hold himself up, and he had become so accustomed to move about within the limits of his narrow cell, that he could not take more than two steps forwards without turning round, as though he had struck against a wall, and taking two steps backwards, and so on alternately. The writer states that the prisoner lived only for a week after his liberation. For the last two thousand years, or longer, the "Sick man," China, has been in a state of incarceration like that of the unlucky Russian prisoner. He has been so hemmed in by his own prejudice and exclusiveness; that he has almost forgotten the existence of the world without, while pacing to and fro in his dark and narrow cell. The results of his incarceration, too, have been similar to those thus described. The outside world have at last heard of his imprisonment, and have come forward to bring him out into the sunshine of liberty and progress. But he has become so used to his cell, that he blinks at the light, feels ill at ease, and wishes to return to his dungeon to continue there pacing to and fro in the dark. His kindly doctors gratify his whim by allowing him to keep in his prison the greater part of the day; only bringing him out for short periods, when strangely enough, the same phenomenon is observed with him as with the old Russian. His movements have become automatic, and he cannot take more than two steps forward, without turning round as though he had struck against a wall, and taking two steps backwards, and so on alternately." But the peculiarity of the case does not end here. The patient's mind is affected, as well as his body, and he is fully persuaded that, by this pacing to and fro, he is rapidly advancing. At times light seems faintly to dawn upon the old man's mind; never, however, sufficiently to enable him really to know and to appreciate his situation, but only so far as to make him aware that there is something wrong with him. He then gets melancholy, and attributes all his ills to the doctors, who are endeavouring to cure him. He declares they are murderers, who wish only to take away his life, and, retiring to his dark dungeon, sits down in despair and wrings his hands, lamenting in piteous accents that he is not permitted to continue in the peaceable enjoyment of what he fondly looks upon as the perfection of human happiness and civilization. Many fear that, like the Russian prisoner, he will not live for a week if brought out at once and suddenly into the open day. But the difficulty is, that he perversely insists upon more and more retirement into his den; and his system is in so delicate a state, that though well aware that gratifying his whim will lead to his death, his doctors do not care to oppose it, for fear of the same danger arising on the other side, in which case the responsibility of the old fellow's demise might be laid upon their shoulders; the more so, as he possesses valuable estates, now utterly neglected, which, at his death would fall into the hands of his doctors or their friends. Nobody, but the old gentleman himself, however, doubts that they are acting conscientiously, and doing the best they can to enable the sick man to recover his health; as it is clear to all, who have looked into the matter, that more would be gained by curing him, and letting him manage his estates, with the assistance or co-operation of the Doctors' friends, than by the territories falling into their hands. The treatment that is being so carefully administered would probably prove effectual, but for one most unlucky circumstance. So suspicious has the patient grown, that, instead of trusting to professional men, whose experience and skill might be equal to effecting his cure, he has called in a non-professional. This individual knowing his language, and feigning a great admiration for his ideas, has so worked upon his feelings that the old man has placed himself and his interests almost entirely in the hands of this artful and designing quack, who has persuaded him that the Doctors are his enemies, and that, though, to keep the peace, he had better consult them from time to time, he should not abide by what they say, but stick to his own ideas of the perfection and beauty of his dark narrow cell. For this dangerous and pernicious advice the sick man pays his quack doctor handsomely; and those who are sincerly desirous to do him good, are beginning to despair of ever being able to accomplish anything and to fear that he will go on making two steps forward and two steps backward, till he retires, for the last time, to his cell, and there died in his ignorance and darkness.

In mentioning the accident which happened to Mr. Deane, on Friday, a slight inaccuracy occurred. Mr. Deane was not riding with his brother, as stated, and was not very seriously injured, although much shaken.

The first of the Tea Clippers has arrived here. The Sir Lancelot, which arrived on Sunday morning, making a passage out in 95 days. Her greatest run in one day, of 24 hours, during the voyage, was 345 miles, or very nearly fourteen and a-half knots an hour.

It is stated that the following changes have taken place among the commanders of the P. & O. Company's steamers in this port. Captain Edmunds, of the the Cadiz, takes command of the Ottawa, and Mr. Steed is promoted to the command of the Cadiz. Captain Eyre goes home by the present mail.

The P. and O. steamer Ottawa will take the next English mail North, instead of the Cadiz, as originally intended. This latter vessel is loading for the coast for the second time. On the first occasion, after taking in cargo, the destination of the steamer was changed, and her freight put on board the Formosa. The company's steamer Aden was to leave Shanghai yesterday for this port. The steamer Sultan, which went direct from here to Yokohama, arrived there on the 30th ultimo.

In consequence of the unusually cold season, which we have experienced this year, it is supposed that the more delicate portion of the 75th Regiment have suffered rather severely from coughs and colds. Yesterday, in consequence of the constant fire of short coughs, hacking coughs, and down-right barks, which were kept up by the soldiers attending Divine Service at the Cathedral, the discourse of our worthy Bishop was inaudible in the body of the church.

On Saturday last, while the P. & O. steamer Ottawa was steaming from alongside the Tenasserim to her berth below Fort William, by some cause, she ran into the British ship Celestial Queen, striking her just forward of fore-rigging on the starboard side. The Celestial Queen has her main rail, top gallant rail, bulwarks, and covering board damaged to some extent, and had not Captain Eyre, as he said he did, backed the steamer in time, there is no doubt the damage would have been much more serious.

Below will be found the preface of the Chronicle and Directory for China, Japan, and the Philippines for 1869, published to-day, at the office of this paper. The nature of the new publication is so clearly set forth, and the work, now in its Seventh Year, so well known to the public, that further remarks are unnecessary:—

PREFACE.

The Publisher of the "Chronicle and Directory" is glad to be able again to place the work in the hands of his Subscribers at an early date. No pains have been spared in making the necessary alterations, and in noting the various changes which have taken place among the Foreign residents and Mercantile firms during the past year.

Many of the difficulties, which were experienced in bringing out the last "Chronicle and Directory," have been removed, by the more complete organisation of the system on which the necessary information is collected, and everything having been done in order to obtain accurate returns up to the last moment, the publisher feels confident that this work will be found fully to sustain the reputation it has already acquired. It is not too much to say, that it contains more information concerning China than is condensed in any other one volume.

As it will doubtless be remembered, an addition to the scope of this work was made last year by the introduction of a list of five hundred Chinese Hongs doing business with Foreigners, and classified according to their various specialities. The occurrence of the disastrous fire, shortly afterwards, rendered this part of the work, prepared at no inconsiderable pains, of less value than it should have been; but, in the present volume, the list is re-introduced, very carefully revised, so that the new residence of the Chinese merchants will be all found duly indicated. Several new features have been introduced, which will add considerably to the usefulness of the Directory, perhaps the most practical being the Time and Post Office Tables. The former, compiled from the more detailed tables previously published, give in a succinct form the distance which the P. & O. steamers leave Hongkong, when due in London, when the return mail leaves Home, and when the answer due in Hongkong; and are supplemented by a new table showing the movements of mails between Hongkong and the Australian colonies; that is, the dates of departure from Hongkong, of arrival at Galle, and of departure thence for Sydney. Both these additions will be of considerable value.

The "Chronicle and Directory" is published, as last year, in two forms; the one being, the "Directory" properly so called, at the price of $3, and the other being the complete volume, with the records of seven years, at the price of $5. While the former will answer the requirements of ordinary business, the latter, it may be confidently stated, renders such a valuable statistical and other information as will make it a complete vade mecum in public, mercantile, and general offices.

The Daily Press Office,
Hongkong, January 11, 1869.

The following notification, received from the Government of India, relative to Lighthouses on British Burmah, appeared in Saturday's Gazette.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION.

FORT WILLIAM, the 19th November, 1868.

No 4 of 1868.—The following notice has been received for publication from the Chief Commissioner, British Burmah, in a letter dated Rangoon, 5th October, 1868:—

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

The following lighthouses are about to be established off the coast of British Burmah, probably on the 31st May, 1869, and this is issued as a warning in case they should be so established:—

1.—COAST LIGHTHOUSE.

On the Krishna Shoal, Gulf of Martaban, Bay of Bengal. In latitude N. 15 deg. 36 min. 30 sec.: longitude E. 97 deg. 26 min. Alighthouse on screw piles in 3 fathoms of water at low water on the southeastern edge of the above shoal, showing a fixed dioptric light of the second order. The focal plane of the light 55 feet above high water rise, and fall 12 feet at full and change, visible 15 miles.

The light is cut off as W.S.W. to the westward, and at N.N.E. to the eastward, the centre of the light being S.E.

In making this light (the object of which is enable vessels to round the Basque Point, so as to avoid the dangers of the Basque Flat and Krishna Shoal) from the westward, a vessel should keep in not less than 7 fathoms of water to the south, steering east till the light bears N.W. and distant from 3 to 10 miles, then steering N.E. by N. 40 miles to make the China Buckeer lighthouse, to the mouth of the Rangoon river. Vessels from the northward going south must not get in less than 6 fathoms of water to the westward, or make the light on a bearing to the W. of S.W. by S., if after passing the light a ship is going to the westward she can turn in that direction when the light bears N.W., keeping in 7 fathoms.

2.—HARBOUR LIGHTHOUSE.

The China Buckeer for the mouth of the Rangoon river on the western side.

Hitherto the entrance to the channel to the Rangoon river has been marked by a lightship in 3½ fathoms of water.

This lightship will not be removed till this and the following lighthouse have been illuminated.

The lighthouse is situated on the high land of China Buckeer, which is generally first made by ships bound for Rangoon, and is about 2 miles north-east of the mouth of the China Buckeer river.

It is on screw piles, and the lower part being against a background of dark trees, will be painted white.

It is close to high water mark, but the sands at low water stretch 6 miles to the eastward of it. Ships must therefore keep well to seaward from it.

It will bear a dioptric light, the upper and lower cupolar showing a fixed light, and the centre drum a revolving light, attaining its greatest brilliancy once a minute; it can be seen 18 miles from the deck of a ship. It is in latitude N. 16 deg. 17 min. and longitude E. 96 deg. 13 min.

3.—HARBOUR LIGHTHOUSE.

The eastern groyne for the mouth of the Rangoon river on the eastern side.

This lighthouse is also on screw piles, in latitude N. 16 deg. 29 min., longitude E. 96 deg. 27 min., 30 sec.

This lighthouse will show a light of 60 deg. and will be out of it to the eastward due south; 10 deg. of this angle will show a condensed light, the centre of which will pass through the present position of the light-ship, or in a direction S. 30 deg. W. This condensed light will be visible 18 miles from the mast head of a ship, and the remaining 50 deg. of light will show 12 miles from the deck of a vessel.

Sailing directions for making the mouth of the Rangoon River.

Having made the China Buckeer Light from the southward or eastward, a vessel must not go to the northward of a bearing to it of west, to avoid the eastern sands; and to avoid the western sands the Eastern Grove Light must not be brought to bear to the eastward of N.N.E.

All vessels steering from the eastward should make the China Buckeer Light bearing W. by N, bearing to the China Buckeer Light, and anywhere to the eastward of a bearing to the Eastern Grove of N.N.E., is in safety; anywhere to the northward or westward of these bearings, in danger.

This notice is intended to be preliminary, so that vessels may not be deceived in case they find the lights lighted as above, and the light ship removed. But as something may occur to prevent their being lighted at the time noted, 31st May 1869, until a second notice is issued that they have been lighted, masters of vessels approaching all the precautions which they would adopt if the present lightship was to be their only guide.

POLICE INTELLIGENCE.

BEFORE E. W. GOODLAKE, ESQ.
JANUARY 9TH.

NOISY DARKIES.

Nathaniel Downs and William Thompson, two "gentlemen of color," who, like "Sweet William" follow the sea as a profession, and again, like Mr. Micawber, "waiting for something to turn up," were placed in the dock, to answer a charge of having made a row in the Queen's-road last night, in consequence of looking at the stars too frequently, brought on by too much rum. James King, "a man and a brother," whose house the defendants have done themselves the honor of patronising for some time, informed the court that the two men in the dock "was" making a considerable noise outside his abode.

P.C. 5 deposed to there being "some" shouting when he arrived on the scene, which he attributed to there having been "a mess," in consequence of one of the defendants having gratuitously appropriated the other's outer garments.

Mr. Goodlake was of opinion that one dollar each would be a sufficient punishment.

COLD CHARITY.

Alick McKennan, a seaman unemployed, alias "Lofer," was charged at the instance of Inspector Cradock, with being a rogue and a vagabond.

It appears that McKennan has only just come out of gaol, and immediately after his liberation "went a begging." The Inspector saw the fellow receive money from an American officer, and then came up to him (Inspector Cradock). This was the very height of vagrancy—to beg from an Inspector of Police—so that officer immediately took the rogue into custody. McKennan, when searched, had "one dollar and sixty cents" in small change on him.

Mr. Goodlake thought that one month's hard labour would suit McKennan's complaint to a nicety.

SWATOW.

The city of Chaou-chow-foo is now notified as being opened to foreign residents and trade; a result stated to be due chiefly to the exertions of Mr. Alabaster, H.B.M. Consul at Swatow. The people in this city have long been noticed for their turbulence and inhospitality; and years ago, when the then British Consul visited the place, he had to be smuggled into the city by stealth, for fear of a disturbance.

SHANGHAI.

The steamer Ottawa, arrived on Saturday bringing to-day's later news than the Nil-King, namely to the 9th inst. The news is of little interest. The two gentlemen, who went out on a shooting expedition beyond the Tai-Ho-Lake, and by last accounts were reported as missing, have not yet returned and considerable anxiety continues to be felt. The North China Daily News notices an amusing instance of Chinese criminal law which was given by a case tried in the Mixed Court on the 4th inst., when a flogging and three days' imprisonment were held sufficient punishment for uttering false coin—an offence punishable by English law with penal servitude for various periods, from four years to life.

PEKIN.

A correspondent of the North China Daily News states that the funeral of Mgr. Mouly, the Catholic Bishop, who recently died, took place on the 19th December last, with great solemnity. Almost the whole of the diplomatic corps followed the coffin on foot, and it was preceded by the whole of the Catholic clergy in their robes, by Mgr. Guerry, the successor of the defunct prelate, and two files of native Christians bearing candles in their hands. The procession took two hours in passing through the city, chanting Litanies which were listened to in respectful silence by the crowd of spectators, who crowded from all parts to gaze upon the cortège. The above correspondent says:—"This demonstration was the most imposing that has ever taken place in the capital of China; and the ceremony, which threw so great an éclat over the memory of one of the most humble, but most indefatigable missionaries in China, proved once more the universal estime which is engendered even in this distant country, for true Apostolical virtue, and was particularly touching from the unanimous accord of all the foreigners at Pekin to pay to these virtues a common mark of sympathy and respect.

JAPAN.

The news from Japan brought per mail steamer is meagre. The Japan Times confirms the intelligence of the important move made by Enomoto, late admiral of the Tokugawa fleet, in descending on the island of Yezo and threatening Hakodate and adds that the pirates are in possession of Hakodate, its small garrison having had to retire before their superior force. The above paper regards the fact that the news of Enotomo's invasion of Yezo produced no fresh outbreak on the mainland, as conclusive proof of the thorough extinction of the original civil war. The Government are assembling forces with a view to re-taking Hakodate.

The Japan Herald states that communication between Yokohama and Shanghai by the French mail is to be stopped, and that steamers for M. I. steamers will, in future, run from each place to Hongkong.

A notification has been published, announcing that Yeddo and Nee-e-gata will be open to foreign trade on the 1st inst.

LATER TELEGRAMS.

By the steamer Clan Alpine, which arrived on Saturday evening, telegrams are brought on via Calcutta to the 19th December. The following, from the Calcutta Englishman, are the more interesting items:—

LONDON, December 7th.

The Turkish Government has sent an ultimatum to Greece, threatening a rupture of their intercourse, unless satisfactory explanations are guaranteed regarding Crete. The Republicans are rising in Cadiz, and barricades were erected. The troops have, however, suppressed the movement. Her Majesty the Queen has ordered a medal to be distributed for the Abyssinian war.

LONDON, December 8th.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

HONGKONG, MONDAY MORNING.

Under the influence of speculative transactions the market for Bengal drug, (Patna,) became quite excited at the opening on the morning of the 9th instant, Saturday. The rumour that the steamer from Calcutta was in the neighbourhood with 12th sales drug gradually gained ground, until the appearance in the market of 5th or two bold operators, (and perhaps the only possessors of the news as to the actual supply for this place) proved the report to be well founded. The rates for Patna opened on time to arrive at $635, against $637½ to $640 on credit terms to the Chinese, advancing to $645, at which only 5 to 10 chests changed hands. The feeling, however, was weaker yesterday, so far as relates to gambling in the bargain sales. A lot of about 50 chests having been placed at $640, on three weeks' times, against credit prices to the natives of $645 to $646½. The Clan Alpine brings about 676 chests Patna, and 455 Benares. The Arratoon Apcar has more or less 700 chests of both for this market, to which is to be added about 150 to 200 chests by the Californian; leaving a stock in Calcutta in Government godowns, of about 4,225 chests Patna, and 975 chests Benares. The latest quotations were about Rs. 1,330 for the former, and Rs. 1,325 per chest for the latter. The first opinion as of the season was fixed to take place on or about the 7th inst., was to consist of 2,200 chests Patna, and 1,545 chests Benares. The official report of the coming crop being unfavorable, more particularly for Patna, owing to a great want of rain in the districts, and in anticipation of a short crop, for next year, extensive gambling was carried on in the Bazaar. Under such circumstances prices are expected to rule high. The following may be taken as the present ruling quotations:—Patna, $645 to $647½, to the natives on credit, and $640 on time from speculators hands. Benares, $635 to $640, nominal, no correct price for this can be given now; Malwa, $665, in moderate native demand, foreigners keep themselves out of the market. The next mail steamer is expected to bring a moderate if not a small supply.

The 12th or last Opium sale of last year was held on the 7th ultimo, when 2,100 chests Patna and 1,700 chests Benares were sold at the following rates:—Patna sold highest Rs. 1,330, lowest Rs. 1,320, average Rs. 1,324.7.5; Benares sold highest Rs. 1,310, lowest Rs. 1,295, average Rs. 1,301.4.2½. The result shows a decline on the averages of last sale of Rs. 25.10.10 for Patna, and Rs. 20.0.2½ for Benares. There was an advance in the Bazaar after the sale of about Rs. 25 per chest, and quotations on the 22nd ult. were:—Patna, Rs. 1,350; Benares, Rs. 1,330, per chest.

The market for manufactured goods was dull on Saturday, and the only sales to report are—1,000 pieces 8/4 Grey Shirtings, "Collie's" at $2.65, 2,000 pieces "Lion Chop" at $2.75, 200 pieces Spanish Stripes, slightly damaged, at the proportion price at 77½ cents, and 200 pieces White Shirtings at $4.80. Sales of Shirtings for the fortnight, including auctions, amount to about to 20,000. Lead has been in good demand, and the transactions of the past two weeks foot up about 3,000 piculs Lead, and 1,200 piculs common. There are some small sales of Raw Cotton to report, consisting of 170 bales Bengal Staple at $18.50. There has been nothing doing in shares. The first of the clippers, the Sir Lancelot, has arrived from London, she brings about 49,000 pieces plain Cotton £18,855 worth of Woollens and 945 bales Yarn.

Hongkong, 1st December, 1868.

SHANGHAI.

The steamer Formosa, arrived on the 3rd instant, bringing dates from Shanghai to the 29th ultimo.

The new arrangements of the Imperial Customs for conveying mails to Pekin, via Chefoo, has commenced to be put into force, the Hua-Shing (late Titan), Chinese gun-boat, having left with a mail on the 30th ultimo. The North China Insurance Company have held a meeting, and after some discussion have passed the Deed of Settlement for the new Company. Concerning the allotment of shares, with regard to which some comments were recently made, the Chairman assured the meeting that all possible pains had been taken in the matter to secure a fair apportionment. The old grievance of the extraordinary judicial proceedings at the Mixed Court continues to attract attention. The Recorder mentions an extraordinary case, in which a certain Low-chung-lun, who seemed to be one of the numerous class of hangers about yamens, took upon himself with some companions to make an illegal search for salt, said to be smuggled on board of a boat near the city. He appears to have made a mock arrest of the owner of the boat in order to get him out of the way. The owner being released, returned and found his property stolen.

By the steamer Sui Kong, which arrived on the 8th instant, the above dates were extended to the 4th instant. The weather has been extremely cold; the thermometer falling as low as 17 deg. The Daily News mentions that anxiety is felt in regard to two gentlemen who have been shooting on the West side of the Ta-hit. They started from their host for a day's shooting, but did not return at night. Their lowdah waited for them three days, without hearing of them, and then left. On his way back, near Soochow, he was passed by another house boat, whose occupants, learning the story, ordered him not to go back, as there he felt sure to find no trace of them. He therefore continued his journey to Shanghai, and on the 3rd instant, for the spot, to search for their missing friends.

The most important news is the publication, by order of Sir Rutherford Alcock, of a despatch inviting opinions upon the advisability of opening up new ports. The document is given at length elsewhere. The Shanghai Recorder notices that the Shipping Office of H.B.M.'s Consulate have supplied a long felt want by the publication of a Code of Rules and Regulations for the guidance of shipmasters transacting business at that office. It is noticeable that the fee formerly charged for the shipment of native and Malay seamen has been abolished, and that now only the Government fee of 50 cents is charged. The shipment of all seamen is to be made by a Consular Officer, instead of as heretofore, allowing the superintendent of the Sailor's Home, or his deputy, to place the men on the articles.

It is stated that Sir Rutherford Alcock considers the compensation of Tls. 500 to those who suffered permanent injuries at the late Yangchow outrage, to be too small to meet the circumstances of the case.

A meeting of the subscribers to the Episcopal Church has taken place, at which it was announced that the building would probably be ready in about three months.

The following miscellaneous items are of interest:—

We regret to hear of a fatal accident, from smoke-poisoning, which occured on Saturday afternoon, resulting in the death of a native woman. Smoke was seen issuing from the lodge of a house in the Peking Road, and on the door being broken open, a bed on which the woman was lying was found to be smouldering and the woman dead. The watchman who occupies the lodge had taken her in there, and being unexpectedly sent on a message looked her in, and she being cold had removed a small charcoal stove from the floor, and placed it on the bed, near her face. Sufficient evidence could be elicited from her death, through inhaling the fumes of the charcoal. The injuries she sustained from the burning were not sufficient to cause death, and judging from the position in which the body was found had never been felt by her; she had evidently died before the bed caught fire.—Recorder.

We hear that a small steamer is now kept constantly employed by the Chinese in towing small junks from the mouth of the Grand Canal on the Yangtsze, to Soochow. She is the property of "Pan Yatai," formerly Taotai of Shanghai, and is worked entirely by Chinese. She has now been running for some months, and has in every way proved a great success. When last seen, a few days ago, she was towing as many as five heavily laden native boats up the Grand Canal.—Ibid.

The mail steamer, which came in on Saturday brought one day's later news, which is given in another column.

NORTH CHINA INSURANCE COMPANY 1869-71.

(From the "Shanghai Recorder.")

A General Meeting of shareholders in the above company was held on the 28th ult., at Present:—Messrs. F. H. Bell, A. Michie, E. H. Lavers, F. Porter, E. C. Smith, D. Reid, J. C. Coutts, F. H. Parker, H. Geary, G. Simpson, G. A. Munro, D. McLean, W. H. Carter, R. C. Moffat, W. H. Dalgleish, J. J. Miller, J. G. Purdie, J. A. Muilhall, R. Thiesen, J. J. Claussen, H. G. Hollingworth, T. F. Ballinee, C. W. Overweg, J. P. Tate, James Dow, A. Droege, J. Ashton, A. Borel, E. Fraser, P. Madsen, and H. S. Morris, secretary; 489 votes were represented. Mr. F. H. Bell occupied the chair.

The Chairman said the Provisional Committee appointed last July to organise the new company had completed their labours, and had called the shareholders together in order to report to them what had been done. He would first call on the secretary to read the minutes of the preliminary meeting in July. This being done, and the minutes approved of, the chairman remarked that in obedience to the instructions of the intending shareholders, the Provisional Committee had prepared the Deed of Settlement of the new company, which was now before the meeting. This had not been accomplished without a great deal of trouble, as many alterations and additions had to be made on the deed of the old company. The most important of these had been discussed at the preliminary meeting in July, and he thought the Deed as it now stood would be found to answer all the purposes of the company. When the present company was formed the deed was not formally submitted for approval to the shareholders, but the Provisional Committee thought that on this occasion it would be more satisfactory to do so. The next matter was to explain the intention of the Provisional Committee in the allotment of shares, which has necessarily been a somewhat arduous task owing to the increased number of applicants. He could only say the Committee had spared no pains to make a satisfactory apportionment, and if in some cases they had not been able to meet the views of applicants he was certain it was from no want of care, or of a sincere desire to please everybody.

Mr. Carter then rose and proposed that the Deed of Settlement, as now printed, be adopted by the meeting.

Mr. Overweg remarked on clause 91 that it did not provide for a distribution of profits among contributors every year, but only at the end of the three years. He thought the Chinese would not be sufficiently attracted to the office unless some modification of this was made.

The Chairman replied that this matter had been well considered by the Committee, and they were not disposed to recommend any alteration.

Mr. Purdon observed that the printed paper he had in his hand contained the names of only twelve persons eligible and willing to serve as directors of the new company. He seemed a small number to choose from, the number of shareholders being so large.

The Chairman explained that of the 300 and odd shareholders there were less than 100 resident in Shanghai, and of these several were Chinese.

Mr. D. McLean rose to second Mr. Carter's motion.

Mr. Overweg again took exception to clause 91, and—

The Chairman remarked in reply that it would rest with the directors to offer such inducements to contributors as they might find expedient, in order to meet the competition of any other offices, and that it was unnecessary to make provision to that effect in the deed. He would now put Mr. Carter's motion to the meeting.

The resolution was carried by a large majority, and the draft deed passed accordingly.

The Chairman stated that the only other business before the meeting was the election of directors for the year 1869. After a few questions as to the manner of voting, the ballot took place, and the following gentlemen were declared elected:—Messrs. F. H. Bell, A. Michie, E. H. Lavers, F. Porter, E. C. Smith, and F. B. Johnson.

Some question then arose concerning the election of auditors, and it was proposed by Mr. Muilhard, and seconded by Mr. J. J. Miller, that China old auditors, Messrs. Rowley Miller and P. Maclean, should be re-elected.

Various reasons were assigned why the election should not take place at present, and an amendment was proposed by Mr. Ashton, and seconded by Mr Porter, to the effect that this meeting, whose opinions are and that a meeting be held in April to elect Auditors. The amendment was carried.

The proceedings closed by a vote of thanks to the Provisional Committee, proposed by Mr Reid, and cordially responded to by the meeting.

OPENING OF NEW PORTS.

The following copy of a despatch from His Excellency Sir Rutherford Alcock, K.C.B., H. M's Envoy Extraordinary, &c., &c., &c., to H. M's Consull at Amoy, in reference to the opening of additional ports on the Seacoast, and the establishment of landing places on the Kaou-tsze, is published in the Shanghai papers. A copy has been communicated to the Shanghai General Chamber of Commerce, and Mr. Medhurst, H.B.M. Consul, invites individual opinions on the subject from any member of the mercantile community who may feel desirous of expressing his views, or affording any information or suggestion that may be of service to Her Majesty's Minister.

PEKING, December, 1868, 168.

SIR,—In the Memorial to my address from the Merchants at Amoy, for break below Kai-tung-foo. From above Tsinan foo was nothing but a vast lagoon, scarcely practicable for the passage of small native boats. There was no regular channel, and the soil was silting up so rapidly that houses were buried almost to their eaves; the inhabitants having no other way of entering them than creeping in their knees. One temple especially had been almost buried, nothing but its roof appearing over the level surface of the ground. Messrs. Hollingworth and Elias had met with no molestation on their journey; they had found the people everywhere kind and civil. They had, however, avoided towns during the journey as much as possible. This was only a brief sketch, but he hoped Mr. Elias would be prepared with his notes to lay before the next meeting.

The Chairman having offered a welcome to Messrs. Hollingworth and Elias, whom he was glad to see returned after the successful accomplishment of their task, introduced to the meeting Mr. T. T. Cooper, who proceeded to read his notes on Western China, descriptive of the trade and trade routes of the country.

The following is a resume of the paper which he read:—

If in Western China were included that portion of Thibet lying east of the Kiuchu and reaching to the Tatu, like there is little doubt that it is one of the richest countries in the world. The Kinsha and the Yaloon rivers are celebrated for their gold washings, while it is known that Western Yunnan has abundant mines of silver, tin and copper. In addition to this, we may add the fertile soil and rich coal mines of Szechuen. The western boundaries of Szechuen may be said to commence about lat. 28.20 N., long. 102.5 E. They thence pass down the Tatu river and continue in a southerly direction to the Tungtse, 50 miles west of the Min river. All the country lying west of this as far as Assam and including the valleys of the Lantsan, Nan and Irrawady rivers is inhabited by tribes nominally subject to China and Thibet, to whom many names are applied, such as the Mantzuze, the Lolos, the Moses, the Lutzes, the Mosopois, the Yahtazes, the Ohmbzes, the Sifans, &c. Between the Nan and Lantsang rivers the country is inhabited by the wild tribes of the Lochses, who are the terror of the other more peaceable inhabitants.

To penetrate this country from the coast of China there are three roads; one from Canton to Yunnan by the West river through Kwangtung and Kwangsi, one from Peking to Chengtu and on to Lassa, but the principal, and most important to foreign trade, is the great water road of the Yangtsze navigable to beyond Shibshow-fu, in Szechuen.

Mr. Cooper then described the various classes of vessels trading on the river above Hankow, which both in speed and convenience offered a strange contrast to the foreign steamers plying to the lower part of the river. While it is possible to reach Hankow from Shanghai in three days, the remaining portion of the passage to Chunking-fu, which is about the same distance, occupies for a cargo conveying junk about three months.

The usual route for vessels bound up the river from Hankow is to ascend the Han for about a day's journey, when a chain of lakes is entered and traversed for eight or ten days; these finally communicate with the Yangtsze at Shasi not far below Ichang, whence a short journey leads to the first of the gorges through which the drainage of the great basin of Szechuen finds its way to the lower country. Having passed the Ichang gorge, Fehling, situated on the frontiers of Hupeh, is reached, and here for the first time coal, though of inferior quality, is met with. Leaving this the route passes through the Lukan gorge to Kwei-chow-fu, the principal Customs' station of Szechuen, and the head mart of the salt trade. Kwei-chow was described as a town of considerable importance and only second to Chung-king. As good coal in large quantities was to be had here, the advisability of making it a port of call whenever the river should be open to foreign trade was insisted on.

After passing through the Mitan gorge the first view of the garden-like Szechuen was obtained; the river banks were covered with rich crops of sugar, above which the white-washed cottages, half hidden in trees, recalled to the traveller many home recollections. In spring the whole country was white with the flower of the opium poppy, now one of the staple productions of the province. Admidst such scenes in forty days the great city of Chung-king-fu was reached. One of the most prominent features of the landscape in this portion of the route was said to be the prevalence of a reddish grey sandstone, exhibiting in the gorges an almost polished surface. This deposit had also attracted the attention of Capt. Blackiston, the first explorer of this region.

Chung-King is the great centre of trade for Szechuen and the neighbouring provinces. Here were found crowds of junks, a bustling people, and never ending streams of coolies. Raw cotton and cotton piece goods, native and foreign, are the principal articles of import, vessels accordingly arriving with those articles from the lower river. Sugar, tobacco, hemp and native medicines (the last in enormous quantities) are the principal exports. Besides its importance as a place of trade, Chung-king is the centre of the fiscal system of Western China, the pay of the frontier army is disbursed here, and here are sent the customs' dues of the whole province. The sysee of Chung-king is noted for its purity, and bears a considerable premium elsewhere in China. Chung-king merchants have their agents all over the country, so that in fact the city may be called the Liverpool of China. It is to be hoped, therefore, that in the revision of the treaties the importance of opening this great mart will not be passed over.

About seven days journey above Chung-King is the city of Shi-show-fu, the last important place of trade on the Yangtsze, which ceases to be navigable about 100 miles higher up. Here flows in the Western Min, five days' journey up which leads us to Kin-ting, the centre of the silk and vegetable wax district; famous not so much for its trade as for its neighbourhood to Omi-shan, the great stronghold of Buddhism; to whose temples and shrines thousands of pilgrims annually journey. Here the Miss Branders. one leading from the N.W. called the Ta-tsien-lu, the other the Kin-kiang. On the latter, Cheng-tu, the capital, the Paris of China, is situated. Cheng-tu derives its importance not only from being the capital of the province but from its position on the great road from Peking to Lassa, which passes through the richest districts of Szechuen.

Three days' journey west of Cheng-tu, through the fertile basin of the Min, leads to mountains rich in iron and copper, over which, at an enormous elevation, to judge from the sudden change in the temperature, the road to Thibet passes. Here wild potatoes and Indian corn form the chief food of the inhabitants. The Ta-tu is then crossed by a suspension bridge of iron, from which three days' journey leads to the Ta-tsien-lu, the frontier town of Thibet. Here the climate changes to extreme cold. The chairs which hitherto had been available for travelling must now be exchanged for mules and tents, and food sufficient for ten days' journey be provided before the traveller attempts to cross the great Jeddo range. During the ascent a wild and barren country is passed through; on every side granite boulders lie in confusion, till on arriving at the summit the scene is changed, the granite is left, and the grassy downs of Thibet, pastured by endless herds of yaks and sheep, usurp its place. Eight days journey now leads to Lithang with its gilded Lamaseries and hundreds of priests to whom is entrusted the guardianship of the frontier. Ten days more across the Sanbur, flowing in a beautiful and fertile valley, leads to Bathang, the first town of importance in Thibet, and even more famous for its Lamaseries.

Mr. Cooper then described the roads leading from Szechuen to the West. The best known of these, and in former days the most important, was that leading from Bhamo to Tali-foo. Before the outbreak of the Mahommedan war we learn that numbers of caravans annually traversed the road from Bhamo on the Irrawady to Talifoo-foo, in Yunnan, but that since the commencement of the troubles in that province this trade has been stopped. Mr. Cooper discovered another road, by which Assam and China can be brought into direct communication, and which could thus bring the produce of British India directly into the west of China. This road leads from Bathang to Za-yu, a Thibetan town at the eastern foot of the Himalayas, from thence it crosses the mountains to Sud-ya, on the Brahmapootra, a town in British territory, only 180 miles distant, and having direct water communication with Calcutta. The other road is the direct one leading from Cheng-tu to Lassa, described in graphic terms by the garrulous Abbé Hue.

Mr. Medhurst stated that Mr. Cooper's interesting account of the districts through which he passed was enough to make a traveller's mouth water. He could only express a hope that at no distant date the revision of the treaties between China and western powers would throw open these great marts of which he spoke. Once introduce steamers and there is little doubt that the trade would rapidly increase. Tenders were due to Mr. Cooper, not only for his communication, but for the pluck which sustained him throughout, and enabled him with small means to do so much. He had failed in the great object of the expedition, but all would allow he was not to blame. If his own exertions could have carried him across it, would have been done; all would join in wishing him success in his second attempt from the side of India; he therefore proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Cooper, which was carried by acclamation.

Mr. Forbes stated, on the authority of the Edinburgh Review, a curious fact in connection with the Nepaulese Embassy to China. That the principal object of the Embassy was really trade. Mr. Cooper stated that the Ambassadors had brought with them across the passes some 200 chests of Indian Opium to sell in China; these they had been unable to get rid of to advantage; a few were sold and the rest sent back. It was not unlikely that the failure of the expedition to reach Peking was not so displeasing to the Rajah as it had appeared.

Mr. Cooper thanked the meeting for his cordial reception. He had indeed failed in his first attempt at making the journey which had become the great object of his life. He hoped, however, that the knowledge he had gained would enable him to be more successful in his second trial. One or two explanations which might seem irrelevant he added to make to the meeting, and those presently would excuse him as they concerned his character as a traveller. Sir Jung Bahadoor had recently stated in a letter to H. M. Government that he (Mr. Cooper) might easily have reached Calcutta, but had been stripped on the road because he had assumed the dress and character of a Nepaulese Ambassador. To this assertion he wished to give the most public denial possible. Now he had heard the fact stated by Mr. Forbes he could understand that Jung Bahadoor's remarks were made in a spirit of opposition to the opening of a British trade between India and Western China.

A conversation having ensued, Mr. Cooper stated, in reply to a question, that he had not visited the oil wells in Szechuen, his roadlying fifty miles to the southward. It was only in Ta-ding-chow that he had seen the process of boiling salt by means of petroleum carried on. There seemed to be no regular trade in the article; it being very light and inflammable, and it was only used on the spot to heat the iron pans in which the salt was evaporated.

Mr. Medhurst stated that there were two gentlemen present who, he was sure, could throw much light on the subject of Mr. Cooper's communication. Mr. Wylie had recently paid a visit to the Province of Szechuen, having in fact gone over Mr. Cooper's route as far as Chung-kin. The latter, while in Shanghai in three days, the remaining portion of the passage to Chunking-fu, which is about the same distance, occupies for a cargo conveying junk about three months.

The usual route for vessels bound up the river from Hankow is to ascend the Han for about a day's journey, when a chain of lakes is entered and traversed for eight or ten days; these finally communicate with the Yangtsze at Shasi not far below Ichang, whence a short journey leads to the first of the gorges through which the drainage of the great basin of Szechuen finds its way to the lower country. Having passed the Ichang gorge, Fehling, situated on the frontiers of Hupeh, is reached, and here for the first time coal, though of inferior quality, is met with. Leaving this the route passes through the Lukan gorge to Kwei-chow-fu, the principal Customs' station of Szechuen, and the head mart of the salt trade. Kwei-chow was described as a town of considerable importance and only second to Chung-king. As good coal in large quantities was to be had here, the advisability of making it a port of call whenever the river should be open to foreign trade was insisted on.

After passing through the Mitan gorge the first view of the garden-like Szechuen was obtained; the river banks were covered with rich crops of sugar, above which the white-washed cottages, half hidden in trees, recalled to the traveller many home recollections. In spring the whole country was white with the flower of the opium poppy, now one of the staple productions of the province. Admidst such scenes in forty days the great city of Chung-king-fu was reached. One of the most prominent features of the landscape in this portion of the route was said to be the prevalence of a reddish grey sandstone, exhibiting in the gorges an almost polished surface. This deposit had also attracted the attention of Capt. Blackiston, the first explorer of this region.

Chung-King is the great centre of trade for Szechuen and the neighbouring provinces. Here were found crowds of junks, a bustling people, and never ending streams of coolies. Raw cotton and cotton piece goods, native and foreign, are the principal articles of import, vessels accordingly arriving with those articles from the lower river. Sugar, tobacco, hemp and native medicines (the last in enormous quantities) are the principal exports. Besides its importance as a place of trade, Chung-king is the centre of the fiscal system of Western China, the pay of the frontier army is disbursed here, and here are sent the customs' dues of the whole province. The sysee of Chung-king is noted for its purity, and bears a considerable premium elsewhere in China. Chung-king merchants have their agents all over the country, so that in fact the city may be called the Liverpool of China. It is to be hoped, therefore, that in the revision of the treaties the importance of opening this great mart will not be passed over.

About seven days journey above Chung-King is the city of Shi-show-fu, the last important place of trade on the Yangtsze, which ceases to be navigable about 100 miles higher up. Here flows in the Western Min, five days' journey up which leads us to Kin-ting, the centre of the silk and vegetable wax district; famous not so much for its trade as for its neighbourhood to Omi-shan, the great stronghold of Buddhism; to whose temples and shrines thousands of pilgrims annually journey. Here the Miss Branders. one leading from the N.W. called the Ta-tsien-lu, the other the Kin-kiang. On the latter, Cheng-tu, the capital, the Paris of China, is situated. Cheng-tu derives its importance not only from being the capital of the province but from its position on the great road from Peking to Lassa, which passes through the richest districts of Szechuen.

Three days' journey west of Cheng-tu, through the fertile basin of the Min, leads to mountains rich in iron and copper, over which, at an enormous elevation, to judge from the sudden change in the temperature, the road to Thibet passes. Here wild potatoes and Indian corn form the chief food of the inhabitants. The Ta-tu is then crossed by a suspension bridge of iron, from which three days' journey leads to the Ta-tsien-lu, the frontier town of Thibet. Here the climate changes to extreme cold. The chairs which hitherto had been available for travelling must now be exchanged for mules and tents, and food sufficient for ten days' journey be provided before the traveller attempts to cross the great Jeddo range. During the ascent a wild and barren country is passed through; on every side granite boulders lie in confusion, till on arriving at the summit the scene is changed, the granite is left, and the grassy downs of Thibet, pastured by endless herds of yaks and sheep, usurp its place. Eight days journey now leads to Lithang with its gilded Lamaseries and hundreds of priests to whom is entrusted the guardianship of the frontier. Ten days more across the Sanbur, flowing in a beautiful and fertile valley, leads to Bathang, the first town of importance in Thibet, and even more famous for its Lamaseries.

Mr. Cooper then described the roads leading from Szechuen to the West. The best known of these, and in former days the most important, was that leading from Bhamo to Tali-foo. Before the outbreak of the Mahommedan war we learn that numbers of caravans annually traversed the road from Bhamo on the Irrawady to Talifoo-foo, in Yunnan, but that since the commencement of the troubles in that province this trade has been stopped. HEAD OFFICE, No. 39, QUEEN'S ROAD.

THE HONGKONG FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, which expires by effluxion of time in a few months, having proved a highly successful undertaking, it has been determined by a large number of its shareholders to form a permanent Company, under the same management and with increased Capital.

It is proposed to register the Company under the Limited Liability Ordinance, and the amount of the Capital having been fixed at Two Millions of Dollars, it is considered that Insurers will be amply secured thereby, while at the same time each shareholder will know the extent of his individual liability. The Capital proposed to be called up immediately to a large sum, and provision will be made for the creation of an ample Reserve Fund, which will, it is expected, in a very short time accumulate to an amount practically to give the fullest security both to Insurers and Insured, irrespective of the original Capital.

It is intended to anticipate the termination of the Old Company, by dissolving it from and after the 31st December next, and measures are being taken for that purpose.

In anticipating a successful career for the New Company, it is only necessary to present to the public the results of the Old Company, since its establishment in May, 1866, as exhibited by the following figures:—

The total premiums collected from the 11th May, 1865 to the present time, a period of only 2 years and 5 months, amount to ..... $304,727.72
The losses which have been paid within the same period have amounted to ..... $130,381.22 and include the large sum of $85,270 lost by the Fire at Hongkong in November, 1867.
The amount now at the Credit of the Working Account, after paying all Expenses, and Re-insurances to date, exceeds ..... $150,000.00
These figures fully warrant the most sanguine expectations of success, and it is but reasonable to expect that, strengthened with larger Capital, the present undertaking cannot fail to prove at least as successful as the former one. The Old Company, when it entered the field, had to create a business for itself, but the New one, in taking over the outstanding risks and connections of the Old Company, will at once receive a very large amount of premium, and enter on a profitable and organised business. Moreover, there is no doubt that the risk of Fire in Hongkong has been greatly diminished by the Building Regulations now in force, and by the establishment of a Fire Brigade.

The following are the main features of the New Company:—

1.—A first call of $100, to be paid upon each share on allotment, and a further call of $100 to be paid in Six Months; all further calls to be determined upon at General Meetings of the shareholders.

2.—Interest at 12 per cent. per annum to be on the first instance allowed on the paid up Capital, such Interest to be payable half-yearly, on 30th June, and 30th December. The profits after deducting the said Interest to be applied thus:—20 per cent., pro rata, amongst such of the shareholders as shall have contributed or influenced business to the Company, and the remainder in forming a Reserve Fund of $250,000.

3.—When such Reserve Fund shall have been accumulated, the payment of Interest to cease, and the profits to be applied thus:—20 per cent. to be distributed as already mentioned amongst the shareholders who shall have contributed business to the Company; 20 per cent., to the augmentation of the Reserve Fund until it shall reach $1,000,000, at which figure it is to be permanently maintained; and the remaining 60 per cent., to be distributed by way of dividend amongst the shareholders generally.

4.—No shareholder to hold more than 250 shares.

5.—The Company to be managed by General Managers, with the assistance of a Consulting Committee.

6.—The Funds of the Company to be deposited in Banks or in Government Securities, approved of by the Committee.

The Deed of Association may be inspected at the Office of the General Managers, or at the Office of Mr. HENRY C. CALDWELL the Solicitor of the Company.
